Articles, Ideas, Topics

Do You Have An Interesting Topic That You Think Would Be Of Interest To Your Fellow CAPL Members?

Have you run across a specific situation in your day-to-day tasks that has left you wondering? Our Editorial Staff are looking for noteworthy ideas, and whether you have an author in mind or not, we would appreciate the opportunity to take your ideas to article format to be published in The Canadian Association of Petroleum Landmen's monthly magazine, The Negotiator.

The Editorial Committee is interested in receiving articles and article ideas dealing with a wide variety of topics, from pertinent government issues, to current and changing technical trends that would be useful to CAPL members. As well, CAPL education information is always welcome in order to keep the membership informed and up-to-date.

We are also interested in receiving informative articles of a business nature – articles that will help to keep our members in-the-know when it comes to their day-to-day negotiations. Finally, for all the history buffs out there, we appreciate stories that tell of the CAPL's vibrant history.

Submission guidelines can be found on the CAPL website at www.landman.ca/publications/article\_submission\_guidelines.php. If you are interested in contributing to The Negotiator, please contact Mark Innes at marksinnes@shaw.ca with your article submissions or questions.
